One of my favorite parts of our homeschool journey was reading aloud to our boys. We read all sorts of literature together, and while they all sparked wonderful conversation, one that sticks out to me is Aesop's Fables.

With lessons to be learned, we would quickly know what role a fox, crow, hare, owl, and more might play in these short stories. We enjoyed how folklore and fables humanized animals to teach us a lesson.

So, from times past (and with a modern bend), Folk & Lore takes a lighthearted approach to the art of traditions and stories passed down.

You'll find scandi- and folk-art inspired florals, a nod to block printing, and you'll walk in a forest of animal friends. You'll toss some leaves in the air while still enjoying some of the classics. Both the warm and cool palettes in this collection play off each other nicely, and I hope you love creating with Folk & Lore!
